About Prabashi

"Prabashi", the word itself implicitly carries a sad undertone with it. Also meaning "Diaspora", it represents a group of people who had to draw themselves away from their homeland, their roots, their culture and heritage for some reason or another to settle in various parts of the world. Socialisation which might also mean sharing and caring for people is the best means they have adopted to mitigate this sadness within their hearts. Here comes into scene our "Prabashi", a non-profit community based organization, located in Hounslow, Greater London which acts as a platform for maintaining the spirit of togetherness by promoting community brotherhood in the form of events that brings to light our rich and renowned traditions, to be the bearer of our cultural heritage and diversity. It mainly aims at bringing together the west and the east with all its diversities.

The organisation "Prabashi" provides various occasions to people belonging to various cultures to mingle and enjoy themselves. The celebrations commence with one of the biggest festivals of India which is Durga Puja. It is a four day event celebrated with fun, feast and frolic. The celebrations of Durga puja are a blend of traditions and entertainment. On one hand if there is a strict adherence to the customs of puja, on the other we have the children expressing their love and reverence for Maa durga through dancing and singing. This atmosphere gives a feel to the children of our cultures and traditions far from their homeland. The cultural programme organised every evening is an endeavour by "Prabashi" to maintain and promote the Indian cultural and heritage. Here we like to celebrate the talents within the children as the parents and all other people who have gathered to see the puja cheer the little tots. The cheerful faces of all who gather to celebrate this auspicious occasion, their colourful clothes, the decoration and lighting at the mandap create a bright aura all around. Likewise, the Durga puja is followed by celebrations of Lakshmi Puja, Shyama Puja and Saraswati Puja in a very traditional manner.

When we had to leave our homeland to settle in London and we had to miss our favourite rasogollas, sandesh, mishit-doi and mouth watering poochkas it seemed as if life isn't worth living. But thanks to "Prabashi" for organising such a wonderful occasion where they put up food stalls to cater to the interests of our tongue. And of course its worth mentioning that the Puja committee does make arrangements for lunch and dinner called as bhog served all the days of the occasion for the members and their friends and families.

During these festivals, the footfall in the puja premises is unprecedented. The people in and around Hounslow do support "Prabashi" overwhelmingly and join us with open hearts. Different business establishments sponsor these celebrations with open hands in the form of banners, hoardings and also food items. We also invite the elite of the society in Hounslow like the honourable Councillor, MPs and other dignitaries who render their encouragement and generous support in whatever ways they could to make these efforts of "Prabashi" a great success.

At last but not the least whatever we do or try to do has its own limitations among which the main hurdle remains the financial constraints. If we are able to overcome these, we aim to extend the prospect of "Prabashi" to even wider areas, and celebrating these and more occasions with greater grandeur and pomp. We heartily wish and hope to overcome every barrier so that "Prabashi" can make its presence in UK and worldwide more meaningful and dignified.

Prabashi is a medium that connects our hearts to our homeland and makes us proud of each other
